

Bailey Inducted into Trial Masters

Dennis R. Bailey, shareholder at Rushton Stakely, has been inducted as a member of Trial Masters. Trial Masters is one of the most exclusive accreditations a trial lawyer in the United States can receive. Membership is strictly limited to attorneys who have tried to verdict 35 or more trials in their career. Mr. Bailey has tried over 50. He has been practicing law since 1979 and specializes in civil litigation for the defense.

Although there are Trial Masters members in all 50 states and Washington D.C., fewer than one-half of 1% of U.S. lawyers are members. Trial Masters membership acknowledges a rare advocate that is consistently willing to take their clients' cases to the courthouse to obtain the best results for them.
