

Dennis Nabors Joins Rushton Stakely Law Firm

Rushton Stakely is pleased to announce that Dennis Nabors has become Of Counsel to the firm. Mr. Nabors joins Rushton Stakely after enjoying a distinguished career that has included service as Chief of Staff to Governor Guy Hunt, Assistant Attorney General for Alabama's White-Collar Crime and Civil Rights Division, City Attorney for Montgomery, and Executive Vice President and Chief Lobbyist for the Alabama Hospital Association. Mr. Nabors has significant experience and demonstrated expertise in health care and public policy law, with a particular focus on the impact of state and federal health care regulations on providers and organizations. He has appeared numerous times before the Statewide Health Coordinating Council and the Certificate of Need (CON) Review Board.

Mr. Nabors' experience will blend seamlessly with the health care and administrative law expertise currently offered by Rushton Stakely. Firm President, Tommy Keene, stated, "We are delighted to have our good friend and colleague, Dennis Nabors, join our practice. He fits well with us not only by virtue of his experience but also because he epitomizes the level of competence and quality that our attorneys strive to provide to our clients."
